

Workplace Wellbeing Bulletin

NEWS & VIEWS

Monday, 7th February 2022 | Issue IV

The World This Week

- Union Budget 2022: Mental health finds rare mention in Budget; what does it mean and how will it help – Firstpost

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Tuesday announced the setting up of a National Tele Mental Health programme, which will see 23 tele-mental health centers being launched ...read more

- Swarajability: India's first AI-based job portal for persons with disabilities launched – Deccan Herald

India's first AI-based job portal for persons with disabilities, was launched to widen their opportunities with tech applications ...read more

- In Belgium, government workers no longer have to answer the boss's emails after hours – NPR

Thanks to a new law granting some 65,000 government workers "the right to disconnect" and, in the process, adding Belgium to the growing list of European countries taking steps toward greater work-life balance ...read more

What Are People Discussing

- What HR is Grappling With on Hybrid Work Model – SHRM

Here are some key issues that HR Leaders are still trying to figure out to run an ideal hybrid model ...read more

- How technology can boost diversity and inclusion in the workplace – the HR Director

Businesses can implement diversity and inclusion practices via improved technology, providing a happy, inclusive workforce ...read more

- We need to talk about why so many people are lonely – Fast Company

In a time when we're all so connected, many are also lonelier than ever. A new book looks at why, and what we can do about it ...read more

